RETURN of JOHN SEALY TOWNSEND Esquire, One of the Masters of the Court of Chancery in Ireland.

In the first Quarter of the Year 1831 I received from the Civil List a Sum of £88, being One Quarter's Payment on Foot of a yearly Salary of £400 late Irish Currency, long paid to the Masters of the Court, but which was from that Time discontinued, at least as to me. I thought I had a Claim to the Continuance of that Salary, partly because £1,200 per Annum late Irish Currency were and as I believe still are received by the Treasury from the Bank of Ireland, to be paid over in equal Shares to the Masters, pursuant to the Act of 36 G. 3. c. 1. s. 6., being £300 per Annum to each, and the Residue of £100 late Currency was paid to each of them as a Salary long prior to that Act, and partly because having relinquished for my Office a Place and Income at the Bar, for which I presume to refer to any Noble Lord who holds or has held a Judicial Station in Ireland. I considered myself a Purchaser for valuable Consideration of the Office and all its Emoluments. Having, however, stated my Claim and the Grounds of it at large in a Memorial to the Lords of the Treasury, and their Lordships having decided against me, I bowed to their Opinion with the Deference which I trust I shall ever entertain to high Office and Authority; and I mention it now only lest it might be conceived that the Payment above mentioned was made unadvisedly. I have also received in each of the Three Years mentioned the Sum of £3,000 late Irish Currency, equivalent to £2,769 4*s.* 7*d.* of the present and British Currency, from the Consolidated Fund, according to the Provisions of the Chancery Act 4 G. 4. c. 61., and, according to the Provisions of the same Act, I have received no Fee or other Emolument whatever.

I beg leave to mention that my Office and that of my Clerk (though in Theory they are both considered as mine) are in Practice quite distinct, at least as to Emoluments and Expenditures, except that I have always paid for the Fires of both; I beg, therefore, that what follows as to my Expenditures may be so understood.

My Expenditures are extremely small. I have paid to the Housekeeper in each Year for taking care of the Office, £4 4*s.*, and for Paper and Pens £1, and to a Tipstaff, whose Office as to me is an absolute Sinecure, £1. I have had some slight Repairs and Alterations made at my Expence in the Interior of the Room I sit in, of which I have kept no Account, and really do not know the Amount, nor am I sure that any one of them was within the Period mentioned. For the Two Fires I have mentioned I have paid to the Housekeeper the ordinary Price; viz. for each of them Sixpence for each Day that a Fire was made; how many such Fires have been I do not know, having kept no Account of the Number, but I believe that the Two Fires have cost me about £10 in each Year. The Books in which I write have cost me rather less than £2 in each Year. These have been all the Expenditures in my Office within the Period mentioned; my net Emoluments therefore, as nearly as I can ascertain them, have amounted to about £2,750 in each of the Years referred to, besides the single Payment first above mentioned.

I have One Chief Clerk and Examiner; his Name is Thomas Townsend; he was appointed by me in January 1831, on the Death of his Predecessor. The Office is, by Law, held during my Pleasure. The Duties performed by him in and out of his Office are as follows;

Taking the Depositions of Witnesses to all Interrogatories and Cross Interrogatories in Aid furnished by the Solicitors to the Parties in the several Causes where such are directed.

Taking all Affidavits in any Chancery Business, and Answers presented to him by any Person or Persons in his Office; attending for the same Purpose when called on at any of the Gaols in the County or City of Dublin, and at any private House within the City or some Miles round, when the Person to be sworn cannot attend from Sickness or any other Cause; and swearing Persons to Returns of Answers or Depositions taken before Commissioners in the Country.

Taking charge of and giving Receipts for all Deeds and other Documents ordered to be lodged in his Office, examining and comparing same with the Schedules produced at the Receipt and Delivery of them or any Part of them when ordered so to do, and producing them when required.

Examining all Documents charged for in Bills of Costs taxed by the Master, taking off all Overcharges thereon, and arranging such Documents for the Master's Inspection.

Superintending generally all Business done in his Office with regard to Leases, Charges, Discharges, and other Papers lodged or required from his Office.

For his Disbursements, Salary, Fees, and Allowances, I beg leave to refer to his Return herewith sent; he being by the Chancery Act an Officer of the Court, and regularly sworn into Office as such before the Lord Chancellor.

My Chief Clerk and Examiner also receives the Biddings on Lettings of Lands by Auction, under Orders; but as his Room immediately adjoins mine, if any Question whatever occurs it is immediately brought before me and decided, so that in effect the whole proceeds under my Consent, Directions, and Superintendence.

I beg leave humbly to observe, that under 4 G. 4. c. 61. the Master's Examiners are allowed their Fees in late Irish Currency, and under that Act their Accounts are to be made up to and including Trinity Term in each Year. The Account of the said H. B. Molesworth, under which he received the above £107 12s. 1d., was under the said Act made up to and including Trinity Term 1833; whereas the present Statement is made up to Michaelmas Term 1833. He takes the liberty of making this Statement to account for any Discrepancy which might otherwise appear in his Statement to the Commissioners for auditing Public Accounts and on his now Statement.

There was during the Period aforesaid One permanent Clerk in my Office (David Ball), and he held such Employment for some Years preceding Michaelmas Term 1831, and the said David Ball was paid by me a yearly Salary of £70 late Currency, and he was also paid Three Halfpence per Folio of every 72 Words for Copies of Documents made by him, or by occasional Clerks employed for the Purpose, after the usual Hours of transacting Business in the Office, the yearly Amount of which extra Duty and for extra Clerks, as well as I can ascertain, is set forth in the foregoing Schedule under the Head of Scriveners Accounts.

The Duties of such permanent Clerk are to keep a general Roaster of the daily Business to be done in the Office of the Master and consequent thereon, to enter and file all Summonses issued by the Master, to file Cases and Recognizances, to copy all Pleadings and other Documents in the Office, and generally to be under the Orders and Direction of the Master in the Business of the Office, and to receive all Directions of the Master as to Appointments for public Business, &c., but still under the immediate Direction of the said H. B. Molesworth, as principal Clerk, &c.

The Name of the present Clerk is William O'Callaghan; he holds his Office at Pleasure of and is under the Direction and Control of the said H. B. Molesworth, and is appointed by him, but sworn into Office by the Lord High Chancellor.

No general Account has been kept in my Office of Stationery (which was however always supplied at my Expence), the Amount of such Stationery, &c. so provided by me was £9 17s for the last Six Months.
